It had approximately two hundred and fifty registered delegates.

The scientific program was well spread out over three days. On the first day there were two workshops. 1) Holistic approach to menopause 2) Video workshop on Robotic gyne surgery. It was very well attended and members enjoyed the discourse.

The first day also had the CIMP exam in which 48 students participated.

The next two days in the academic sessions we had International Menopause society session, British Menopause society session, Duru Shah oration, keynote addresses, SAFOMS session, debates, symposia, mixed bag sessions and Panel discussions. Almost all aspects of mid life issues were covered in these sessions.

Besides this we also had a club 35 session where the ladies benefited from important talks given by stalwarts.

The academic feast was accompanied by two evenings of fun and masti in the form of inaugural dinner on 16th and banquet on 17th. Inaugural dinner was preceded by a formal inauguration in which all IMS office bearers and international faculty was present.
